

Parade, dinner will welcome the 1355th

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The warmest of welcomes is planned Saturday for the returning National Guard 1355th unit, beginning with a parade and ending with a repast at American Legion Post 77, complete with entertainment.

All veterans throughout the county will be honored with a week-long celebration the following week, according to Cindy Vernon, executive director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

A parade will kick-off festivities, beginning at 11 a.m. at Waveland and Central avenues. "It will be one of the nicest ones Hancock County has seen in a long time," according to chairman Clayton Thompson.

The Keesler Drum and Bugle Corps has been contacted to lead the parade, said Thompson. Hancock High School Band will march, with possible entries from Bay High and St. Clare marching units.

Seven local veterans' groups will present a color guard, and convertibles will carry veterans of World War I and II, the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam War," he added.

A huge "Desert Storm" banner will welcome the 1355th, whose members will be aboard two flat bed trucks to greet parade goers.

The ladies' auxiliaries will sponsor several entries in the parade, including each "Miss Poppy" from various units.

A toast to the troops will be offered at Post 77, off Coleman Avenue, where the parade will disband. (See Page 3A for parade route.)

Thompson said entries are still being accepted for those wishing to join the parade. Marching units, floats and decorated vehicles are welcome, as long as they are non-political in nature.

Property cleanup problems consume Bay council meeting

BY TRACI BONNEY

Tuesday was cleanup night for the Bay St. Louis city council.

The council voted 4-1 to declare six properties menaces and obtain bids for the cleanup of those properties. Council member Charles Scianna voted against the motion, saying he could not in good conscience call the properties menaces when he had not had an opportunity to see them.

Also on the property cleanup agenda were discussions about properties belonging to Carl Hodges and Joe Colson.

HODGES' PROPERTY

James and Kelli Hamilton, who live next door to Hodges on Necaise Avenue, appealed to the council to do something about Hodges' property, which they said has bicycles and lawn mowers in various conditions in the back and right sides of the yard.

Hamilton added that Hodges has started a lawn mower repair and bicycle sales business at his house, and has built a carport cover with the edge too close to the Hamiltons' property line.

In addition, Hamilton claimed that Hodges has had a survey made that puts his property line half a foot inside Hamilton's line, even though the Hamiltons' property stakes from their survey are still in place.

Mrs. Hamilton said the property Hodges is trying to claim includes the Hamiltons' fence, which she said has existed as long as the house has.

Charles Hirstus, attending the meeting on another matter, occupied the house before the Hamiltons bought it seven years ago. He confirmed that the fence had been in place when he bought the house, and said he thought Charles Ladner, who owned the house before him, had built the fence.

Council member Jim Thrifflay said that if the fence were in place at least 10 years, the Hamiltons could claim the property inside it on their side by adverse possession, no matter what Hodges' survey said.

The council asked the Hamiltons to submit a copy of their property survey and signed notes from Hirstus and Ladner certifying that the fence was in place at least 10 years.

The Hamiltons agreed to the request, but emphasized that

Hancock school board gives nod to Vo-Tech curriculum

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County Vocational-Technical director Al Bourgeois received board approval Monday for the 12 occupational skill programs to be taught during the 1991-92 school year.

Bourgeois presented a comprehensive file of all state-mandated objectives per level of course completion.

He said of the 12 programs available through the Vo-Tech Center, two are master level courses.

The state department of education dictates 70 percent of the Vo-Tech's class selections, Bourgeois explained, leaving 30 percent of the offerings as areas in which local needs are addressed.

For example, Bourgeois said the school has chosen to include in the drafting classes one which addresses the field of electronics, a popular field in the current job market.

"The teacher has a lot of latitude to develop within the context of the required fields," he stated.

"Also a committee, which meets twice a year, helps to advise in the designation of class development. The committee is made up of educators as well as professionals, to have the best input possible."

Bourgeois spoke of how Vo-Tech schools have suffered from a negative connotation within the past years.

"We are trying to change that image."

He said the center addresses the needs of students who lack either the ability or the interest in the typical college preparatory program.

"Our academic attitude has been to push everyone towards

Fordice calls for change in state's administration

BY TRACI BONNEY

Republican gubernatorial candidate Kirk Fordice says it's time for a change.

Fordice, president and CEO of Fordice Construction Company in Vicksburg, has been active in the Republican party for the past 30 years.

"I have felt for many years that cultivating the two-party system in Mississippi is essential to the state's survival and progress. I think conditions in the state are different now and the time is ripe for a switch to be made."

One reason Fordice cited for his beliefs is that Mississippi is surrounded by states that either have Republicans in leadership or have had Republican governors in recent years.

Another reason, he said, is that "people are fed up with politics as usual."

"If I could sum up in four words what I have consistently heard as I've traveled throughout the state, those words would be 'We need a change.'"

"The real problem we have is that professional politicians are running the state and the country and don't really care about the people."

Fordice said three of his four sons live in Mississippi, as do all five of his granddaughters.

"One thing I want to do, one thing all governors should do, is make Mississippi a better place than when we started in office."

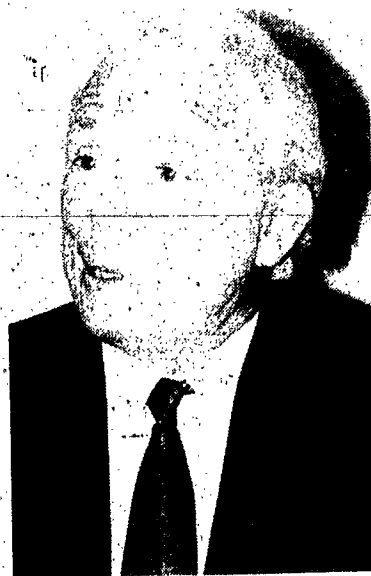

Fordice said he expects to see party changes in the state legislature after he is elected.

"I think we'll have an atmosphere of change, a breath of fresh air, that will allow us to go forward in Mississippi."

One thing he plans to push for in the legislature is restriction of legislative terms.

"This concept is sweeping the country, and I think we need it in Mississippi. When a politician stays in a job too long, he starts looking at it as just a step on his career ladder, and stops caring about the people he's supposed to serve."

Standing room only for Waveland's board meeting

Waveland residents crowd meeting to see sparks fly

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The City of Waveland held its first meeting of the month Tuesday in a packed meeting room.

At least six people stood, and all seats were occupied at the start of the two-hour meeting in which city business was conducted to the amusement of residents.

Mayor Stella Frilot and Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman immediately butted heads following a discussion on the docket.

Weidman questioned the necessity of a recently hired city mechanic, when the docket still contained vehicle repair bills.

Frilot pointed out those charges were for services the mechanic did not perform, such as muffler repairs, and the others were services prior to the mechanic's employment.

She also pointed out the questions were answered to Weidman's satisfaction prior to the opening of the meeting.

During the course of the discussion Weidman addressed the mayor as "Miss."

He was corrected as to the mayor's marital status and was told by Frilot to address her as "mayor" not "Miss."

A request from resident Clarence Harris for the use of the Martin Luther King Park for a festival on August 24 brought Frilot to silence as Weidman refused to yield the floor, speaking loudly while ignoring Frilot's attempts to comment.

The dispute was over an electrical meter, which the city keeps turned off, at Martin Luther King Park.

Harris requested the city

Waveland board deadlocked over Idlewood study issue

The Waveland Board of Aldermen reached a deadlock Tuesday night over whether to spend $2,500 for a topographical study of the Idlewood subdivision.

Several months ago the city instructed attorney Lucien Gex to request that James Chiniche submit a quote on the cost of a topographical study of the area in order to discover whether current drainage problems are inherent or man-made.

Mayor Stella Frilot suggested the city not spend the money, citing the study would not provide more information than the city already possesses.

Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman asked Frilot about "The lawsuit the city is facing from the property owners along the Idlewood subdivision."

Frilot said there was no suit. Weidman said he had possession of a letter that states the city was to be sued and understood the study was needed for the city's protection.

Gex, called upon for comment, stated, "I responded and told them to go ahead. I haven't heard anymore."

Extended hours offered for voter registration

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office will remain open Saturday, August 10 from 8 a.m. until noon for voter registration, according to circuit clerk Pam Metzler.

In addition, weekday hours will be extended from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. from August 12-16, said Metzler, noting "We want to allow the working person an opportunity to register to vote in the September 17 primary."

In order to vote in the September and October elections, registration must be completed by Friday, August 16 at 7 p.m. A person registering after August 16 will not be able to vote until November, said Metzler.

The circuit clerk's office is waiting to receive ballots from the Democratic and Republican parties for the September primary. The parties, in turn, are waiting for a final list of candidates for state office.

Candidates may still register to run for the state House or Senate, as the deadline was extended to Aug. 12 because of the redistricting dispute.

"We are shooting for Monday, August 19 to have absentee ballots available," she said, mentioning people have already begun inquiring about voting absentee.

A person 18 years of age, residing in the area for at least 30 days, may register to vote.

Seymour seeks re-election as District Four Supervisor

Wilmer Seymour

Wilmer E. "Wimpy" Seymour has announced that he is seeking re-election as Hancock County District Four Supervisor.

Seymour, a resident of Bay St. Louis since 1955, resides at 625 Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis. He was elected to office in a November, 1988 special election.

"As a supervisor for three years, I understand the needs and concerns of the people of District Four and Hancock County," Seymour said.

Seymour was graduated from the University of Southern Mississippi with a bachelor of science degree in health and physical education. He received a master's degree in school administration from USM in addition to a Triple A degree in health and physical education.

Seymour and his wife, Mary Francis, have three children, Steve Seymour, Gina Powell and Will Seymour, and one granddaughter. All are residents of Hancock County.

Prior to being elected supervisor, he served as councilman-at-large on the Bay St. Louis City Council for 11 years.

He served two years in the United States Army and is presently a member of Mississippi Army National Guard and was a coach and athletic director for 33 years in the Bay-Waveland School District.

He and his family are members of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

"As your supervisor in District Four, I will continue to work diligently to enhance the growth and welfare of this county by addressing and listening to the needs of the public," Seymour said.

Saucier vies for Dist. 3 seat

Clifton Saucier has announced his candidacy for Hancock County Supervisors, District Three.

Saucier, a life-long resident of the Standard community, attended Sellers High School and graduated from Pearl River Junior College. He is married and is the father of five children.

Experience in business and administrative activities is what Saucier is offering to the voters. He has served ten years on the board of trustees of Hancock General Hospital and two years on the Hancock County Welfare Board.

Also, Saucier worked for Diamondhead Corporation for eight years, where he was in charge of construction and maintenance of streets and public grounds. Presently Saucier is active in the field of real estate development.

In particular, Saucier feels that his administrative experience and his knowledge of construction and maintenance provides the voters with a prime candidate for the supervisor position.

"I am familiar with the process and procedures required to get jobs done effectively and efficiently," he said.

Among Saucier's ideas are projects such as improving and building streets and roads; implementing a beautification program and providing better recreational services for all ages, young and old.

"However, I am very sensitive to the taxpayers' desires and understand that county tax money should be spent carefully and deliberately so as to benefit and please the entire district," he said.

Saucier believes this can be done by getting feedback from the district voters in his effort to see everyone treated equally and benefited proportionately while spending tax money wisely.

"I will be as close to you as your telephone. You can call me anytime at 255-9281," said Saucier.

A home-cooked feast of fried fish, jambalaya, red beans and rice and hot dogs will await the 1355th and their families at Post 77. The food will be prepared by local chefs, headed by John Rutherford.

"The food will be fair game for all, until it's gone," said chamber president Basil Kennedy, who noted the public is welcome to eat after the special guests are served.

Live entertainment will be provided by "Sidetracks."

Joint funding for the event will be provided by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the county board of supervisors, civic groups, businesses, individuals and the veterans organizations.

Participating veterans organizations and the contact person for each include:

—Veterans of Foreign Wars 3253, Bay St. Louis, Don Mauffray;

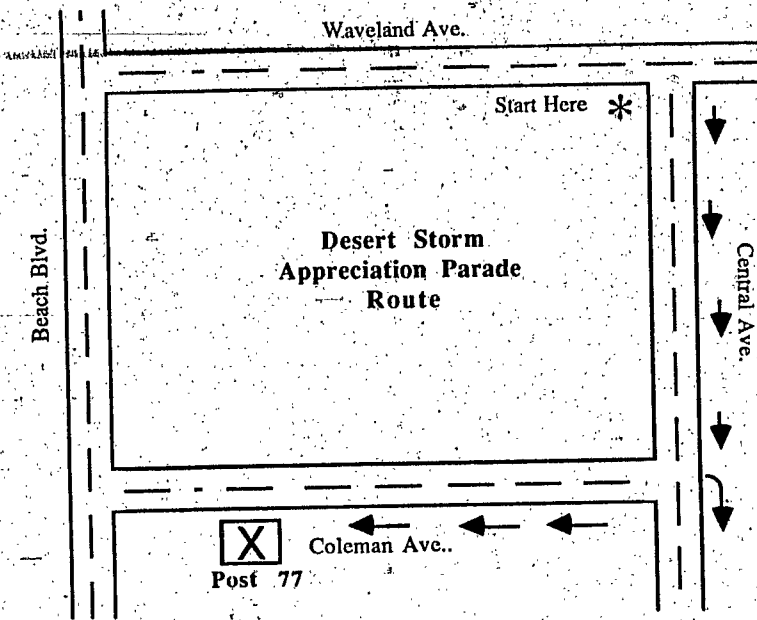

—Veterans of Foreign Wars 6285, Kiln, Paul Moody;

—Veterans of Foreign Wars 4805, Ansley, Kenny May;

—American Legion Post 139,

Anyone wishing to donate time, money or products for the appreciation celebration may contact the chamber office at 467-9048, or any of the chairmen listed above. The chamber is also soliciting discounts or services for the veterans during the week following August 10.

Ladner, Ginn serve on development board

The Pearl River Community College Development Foundation has raised more than $600,000 over the last four years.

According to Donna Wilson, executive director of the PRC foundation, $184,325 was raised from private sources this past year pushing the four-year total to $607,669.

The past year the foundation awarded 130 students scholarships and funded 38 teaching enhancement grants. It also made 206 student loans for a total of $19,623.

To date, $182,965, or 30 percent, has been earmarked for student scholarships.

Ott Brockman of Hattiesburg and Berlon Lee of Columbia will serve as co-chairs of the organization during the next year.

Homer Moody Jr. of Poplarville will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the Development Foundation Board include Harrison Ford of Hattiesburg, Frank Ladner of Bay St. Louis, James Ginn of Bay St. Louis, Bob Baughman of Bassfield, Sid Malone of Hattiesburg, Jeanette Crain of Columbia, Larry Barker of Picayune, James Fleming of Picayune, Fred Lee of Bogalusa and Mickey Hudson of Hattiesburg.

Special election costs too much

Not too long ago it was decided by the powers that be in our state that we are having far too many elections. It was decided that whenever a vacancy or vacancies needed to be filled, special elections would be held the next November.

This all sounded very good to taxpayers, because they too began to realize how much was being spent on special elections.

Guess what? It looks like we will have a special election to elect the powers that be, because they were unable to agree on redistricting lines.

Now, our state's leaders knew for some time they would have to redistrict because of the 1990 Census. It looks like they would work together to resolve their differences before handing the matter over to the court to decide, and face having another election next year with an acceptable redistricting plan in place.

Estimates on the cost for a special election covering the entire state have been set at $1.8 million.

Funds are very tight in our state, and many agencies have received very heavy cuts in recent months.

Mississippi doesn't appear to have a loose $1.8 million to be used for a special election.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Saturday morning will be the time for folks to get out and extend their appreciation to our troops who have returned from Operation Desert Storm.

A parade of Operation Desert Storm participants is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. at Waveland and Central avenues and proceed down Central to Coleman Avenue and then to the American Legion home.

A big feast is planned for the veterans and their families which will include fried fish, jambalaya, red beans and rice and hot dogs.

There are a lot of chefs who will be involved in the preparation of the meal with Super Chef J.D. (Big John) Rutherford as the food chairman.

Live entertainment will follow the free luncheon for the veterans and their families beginning at noon at the Legion home.

The big celebration is sponsored by the county's veterans organizations, the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, Hancock County and individuals.

We, as citizens, need to once again show our support for the troops by lining the parade route Saturday morning.

I hope to see you there.

Gulf of Mexico environmental program funding increased

The EPA's Gulf of Mexico Program, located at NASA's Stennis Space Center, has been informed that funding for the Gulf Program will be increased more than 350 percent in the next year.

After learning that the EPA was spending nine times more on programs for the Great Lakes and Chesapeake Bay than the Gulf of Mexico, the Gulf of Mexico Task Force, of which I am a member, initiated discussions with EPA Administrator William Reilly. After months of negotiations, the EPA agreed to increase discretionary funding for its Gulf program from $1.4 million in FY 91 to $6.3 in FY 92.

As a member of the Sunbelt Caucus we collectively expressed our concern that the Gulf Coast was not getting its fair share of funding from the EPA.

Taylor said the $4.9 million increase will be used for shellfish bed restoration, oil spill bioremediation, a strategic assessment identifying priority Gulf problems, air problems and marine debris.

Concerned with the federal management of the Gulf, the Congressional Sunbelt Caucus, a bi-partisan coalition of members from 17 southern and southwestern states formed the Gulf of Mexico Task Force. The 24 task force members represented Congressional districts along the Gulf Coast from Texas to Florida.

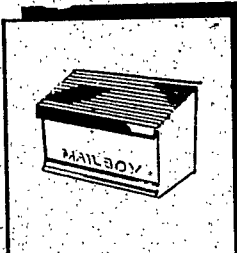

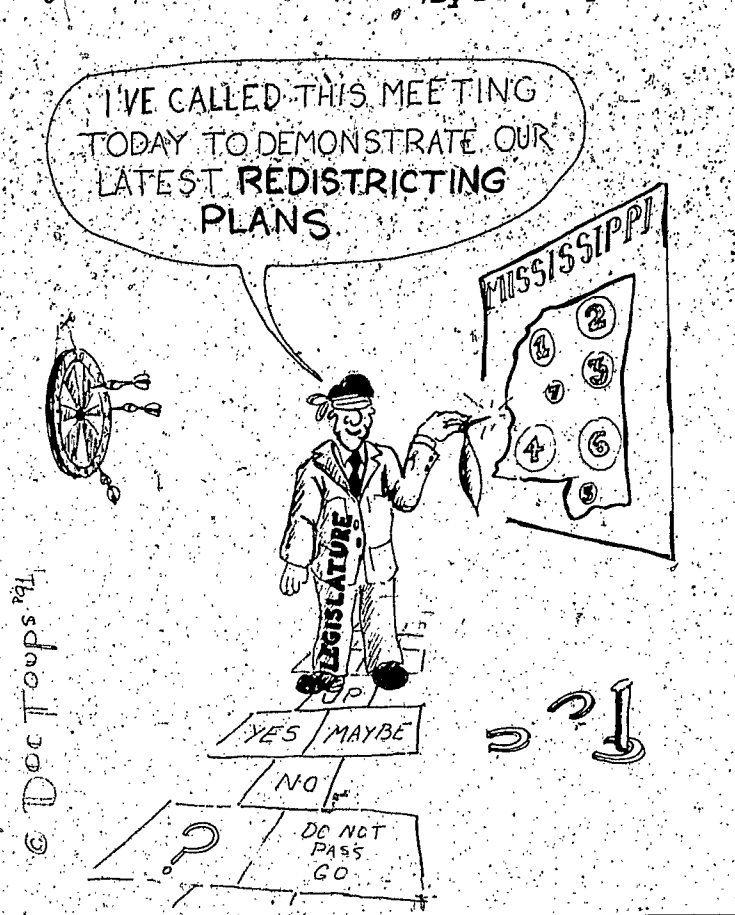

Gulf facts:
—More than half of the land area of North America drains into the Gulf of Mexico, bringing pesticides, toxins and other waste.

—The marshes and estuaries along the Gulf Coast serve as spawning grounds for 98 percent of the fish caught in the Gulf.

—Nearly half of all U.S. import/export tonnage passes through Gulf waters.

—Four of the country's 10 busiest ports are in the Gulf.

—The Gulf produces more than 72 percent of all the domestic offshore oil, and 97 percent of the natural gas produced offshore.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Let legislators pay for special session

Dear Editor,

When a worker in a garment factory did not sew a shirt correctly, that worker did not get paid for doing it over.

When the Mississippi Legislature did not do their work correctly on redistricting the state after the 1990 Census, they should not get paid for doing it over: $765,000 for a special session and $1,800,000 for a special election.

These costs should be deducted from their pay rather than from the taxpayers' (i.e. the general fund if they don't do their work).

Let them work for nothing (no salary, no expense money, no travel money), and there will soon be a new map and avoid the cost of a special election next year.

Very truly yours,
Virginia C. Watt

Gain control of future by participating in workshops

Dear Editor,

Something wonderful is always happening! I attended the gaming workshop Thursday night, and it was heartwarming to witness the commitment and interest shown by members of the community.

It's wonderful that someone should ask citizens for their ideas and that elected officials seemed willing to listen.

To paraphrase a popular Russian comic: "Democracy—what a concept!" No doubt that George and John and Tom and those other good ol' boys back in 1776 would be nodding their approval at the exercise in "participatory democracy" exhibited in Bay St. Louis here in 1991.

For those turned on by this idea of free expression and empowerment, there's another community workshop scheduled for Sept. 6-7.

This one is not related to the gaming issue. It will be fundamentally different in terms of its future focus... since we all know how difficult it is to change things once the ball is already rolling.

For those who've experienced the frustration of trying to face changes being forced on one's community, the concept of "anticipatory democracy" will be offered as a framework for empowering citizens to gain some control over the future of the town in which they live.

This workshop is sponsored through a grant from the Mississippi Humanities Council as a follow-up to the Governor's Conference on the Future.

As the local coordinator, I invite interested members of the Bay-Waveland communities to contact me for further details.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Governor to be in strategic position in 1992 elections

What was thought unthinkable a short time ago—that state legislators would have to run for office this year and then run again next year in strange new districts—has happened.

A three-judge federal court panel, frustrated over the total mishmash of legislative redistricting plans thrown at it from several sides, last Friday did about all it could reasonably do in order to allow this year's scheduled quadrennial legislative elections to go off on time.

It ordered legislative elections in existing districts this year, malapportioned as they are under the 1990 census, with the virtual certainty that new elections will be ordered in 1992 under a court-approved plan that meets voting rights and equal population standards.

The ramifications of electing a Legislature that will sit for only one year, followed a year later by a new one elected to serve three years, are so broad that hardly anyone who follows the course of Mississippi state government is prepared to predict the outcome.

Certainly one immediate prospect is that the Mississippi governor elected November 5 is going to be sitting in an unprecedented strategic position to extend his influence into the legislative branch. The fact that legislators will have to run for re-election next year at a time when the governor is already in office gives the next governor enormous leverage to defeat unfriendly lawmakers and elect friendly ones.

That has never happened before in Mississippi history. The possibilities are endless.

For instance, if Gov. Ray Mabus is re-elected, he would have a golden opportunity next year to pay back lawmakers who blocked his attempts to get a state lottery in 1990 and fund his BEST education program by campaigning against them in their home districts.

A likely scenario for the 1992 session of the Legislature could find lawmakers clamoring to get on the governor's team in order to keep him out of their re-election races, which are going to be difficult enough, given the public disgust over the redistricting debacle.

Whoever is governor in 1992 is almost certainly going to have to ask for a tax hike to prevent state government from shutting down and restore the damaging cuts in higher education and junior colleges as well as the minimum education program.

Faced with having to go back to the voters the same year, the 1992 legislators would be loathe to vote for taxes. On the other hand, they could face a hostile governor if they don't.

The dealing that went on both behind the scenes and on stage in the frantic two weeks of legislators scurrying around trying to reach a negotiated settlement on a redistricting plan before the court deadline has left the already fragmented Legislature only more divided.

One of the most damaging blows came when several key members of the House black caucus secretly agreed to a plan offered by the forces of Speaker Tim Ford.

It would have sacked a number of the 38 progressive white lawmakers who had joined the black caucus in a coalition behind an "alternate" black-backed plan beaten down on the House floor by the Ford forces in April.

The deal with the Ford group was apparently struck by Rep. Ed Blackmon, of Canton, one of the black plaintiffs in the federal court lawsuit, in a back room meeting with Ford. It appeared to be a cynical bit of power brokerage to lure the black caucus away from the white progressives.

In a move to repair their damaged trust with the white progressives the 20-member House black caucus held a heated meeting and disavowed the actions of Blackmon and Rep. George Flaggs of Vicksburg, the current caucus chairman, who had supported the deal with the Ford forces.

All of the byplay feeds into the strong undercurrent in the House to unseat Ford as speaker in 1992. Many lawmakers believe Ford's doom has already been sealed by the failed redistricting plan which he narrowly pushed through in the 1991 legislative session.

Besides several of his top lieutenants, including Rep. Tommy Walman of McComb and Rep. Jim Simpson of Long Beach, have announced they are dropping out of the Legislature.

Since the next House of Representatives will only sit in 1992, the question already being asked is: will the speaker be elected for only one year, and will another election be held for speaker in 1993? Existing House rules say that the speaker is elected for four years, unless he is removed by a two-thirds vote.

Who knows what changes lie ahead in the Legislature? It's anybody's guess.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi
Economic Council

Another step toward the next century

As Mississippi moves toward the 21st Century, it is essential that the state consider new, innovative measures in government.

To fund and adequately provide essential services, local governments across the nation have begun to cooperate in their efforts. So, too, have some cities and counties in Mississippi.

It is no longer unique to find the county tax collector and assessor doing the job for cities, eliminating the need for similar municipal officials. Some counties are also repairing city streets.

The city of Jackson is considering turning all street maintenance, along with the budget, over to Hinds County.

But Mississippi has made only token moves to allow a merger of services and consolidation of functions to prepare its citizens for the next century. The state is simply one step away from allowing local citizens to have an alternative form of government.

Because many county officials are created by constitutional sections, there is a barrier to the possibility of substantive restructuring of the basic forms of county government.

While a county might conceivably absorb dissolved municipalities and provide the services previously provided by the municipalities, the form of government required by the constitution requires five supervisor districts, a sheriff, a coroner, a tax collector and a surveyor.

Mississippi needs to amend the constitution of 1890 so the Legislature can create a truly comprehensive mechanism for cities and counties to consolidate or merge. The amendment should allow the Legislature to create a new form of local government.

Voters in cities and counties would then have an option that today does not exist.

In the 1991 legislative session such an amendment was approved in the House of Representatives and fell one vote short of the needed two-thirds majority in the Senate.

During this election year, Mississippi voters should demand that candidates for the Mississippi Legislature support taking the final step to providing a twenty-first century alternative to local Mississippi government.

Cleanup

their main concern was to have Hodges' property cleaned. Mrs. Hamilton stated, "I want the junk removed."

Council attorney John Scafe said the council could close down Hodges' business if he is operating it on property zoned for residential use. Part of Hodges' property is zoned residential, but the other portion is commercial.

Hamilton said the main problem with that approach is that Hodges would most likely simply move the bicycles and lawn mowers to the commercial part of the property.

Mrs. Hamilton asked if the city could declare Hodges' property a health menace, especially since the mowers, bikes and other items could become a hazard in the event of a hurricane.

Thriffley told her the main difference between Hodges' property and those discussed earlier in the meeting is that the other properties, for the most part, are vacant.

However, Scafe pointed out that the property could be declared a junkyard, which is not allowed in city limits.

The council agreed to pursue the matter from all possible approaches.

Hodges was not present at the meeting.

COLSON PROPERTY

Joe Colson asked the council to grant him an extension for the cleanup of his Main Street property.

Colson, who was set to appear in city court at 5 p.m. Wednesday about the matter, asked the council to give him more time to rid his property of the items that have accumulated there. The council reminded him that the last time he was granted an extension, the accumulations increased instead of decreasing.

Colson offered several reasons for his failure to clean the property within the time limit, ranging from business and financial difficulties to health problems to adverse weather conditions.

The council told him that while they do not enjoy having to take Colson to court, they believe they have given him ample time to clean his property.

Colson was issued a court order in mid-January to clean the property, and a $100 fine was imposed for each day the property remained uncleared.

The council pointed out to Colson that he was in debt some $18,000 to the city.

They suggested several ways he could dispose of the items to be removed, but Colson said he had tried everything he could think of, and nothing had worked so far. Colson told the council several times that he could not have the property cleaned by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

OTHER BUSINESS

The council also heard brief reports from Scafe, city zoning project coordinator Jules Lagarde, municipal clerk Kay Johnson and clerk of council Mike Cuevas, approved the claims docket; opened and took under advisement bids for 911 recording equipment and asphalt; and spoke with Treva Smart of the South Mississippi Epilepsy Foundation.

Smart asked for board consideration of funding for Foundation programs and services in Hancock County. The council voted to take her request under advisement for discussion during the fiscal year 1992 budgeting process.

The council adjourned until August 20, 7 p.m.

Hancock Humane Society seeking new members

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Humane Society is in need of more volunteers, according to Thyla Rogers, secretary.

"There are only five members of the organization who actually work, but the work load is constantly increasing and we are unable to keep up," Rogers said.

The only financial support the Humane Society receives on a regular basis is from the flea market operation, which has been closed due to renovation of the Waveland Civic Center since the middle of April.

Julie Brown, treasurer, said, "There are several members of the organization who are unable to do physical work, and we appreciate their monetary support in forms of dues and donations."

Both Rogers and Brown reported they have had to rely on their reserves since the flea market has been temporarily closed for renovations. The organization had to go into savings for the spay-neuter and emergency programs and is concerned that they will soon be broke.

Volunteers are needed to help operate the flea market, and indications are that the organization's remodeled location will be ready by September 1.

Brown said, "There are so many different types of jobs volunteers can do, such as answering the telephone, helping with membership drives or special events. Anything a person is talented doing, can be utilized by the society."

"The Humane Society is only limited by the volunteers' imaginations. They do not have to fit into our framework. We will broaden ours to fit into theirs," Rogers added.

During the past six months, the Hancock County Humane

- Bay St. Louis charges each household for garbage pick up. That fee goes into city funds.
- Waste management charges Hancock County four thousand dollars per month for this garbage to be placed into Waste Management Land Fill. The same is true in the City of Waveland—two thousand two hundred dollars per month.
- Are we being ripped off?
- Flopped yards and streets, blind intersections, uncut bushes on street ditches, mud holes at mail boxes, pot holes in streets.
- Wasted money on pea gravel that does not last on dirt streets. Worn out equipment.

ST. ANN AND ST. JOHN NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor, Father John J. Kelly:

People are like stained glass windows; they sparkle and shine when the sun is out, but when the darkness sets in their true beauty is revealed only if there is a light within.

—Elizabeth Kubler-Ross
Lord, in quietness and strength may I trust in You when the times are dark and I feel no joy. How thankful I am for Your light. Amen.

Father Kelly will be visiting the sick and shut-ins in St. Ann-St. John Parish. If you would like him to visit your home or if you know of anyone who is ill, please contact him at the rectory.

Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary into Heaven is a Holy Day of Obligation. Mass schedule for the parish is:

Wednesday, Aug. 14, 7 p.m. Vigil Mass, St. Ann's Clermont Harbor; and Thursday, Aug. 15, 9 a.m., Mass at St. John's, Lakeshore.

CYO members will meet in the Parish Hall Wednesday, Aug. 14 at 8 p.m., following the 7 p.m. Vigil Mass at St. Ann's.

Booker-Shabazz Progress Movement holds retreat

The Booker-Shabazz Progress Movement is holding a summer retreat this week at the Paddlewheel Inn in Waveland.

The retreat, which started Wednesday and runs through Sunday, offers 50 black youth ages 14-17 the opportunity to build their self-esteem, learn leadership skills, expand their knowledge of black history and discover ways they can contribute to the community.

Leading the retreat are eight college counselors and five high school counselors.

The Progress Movement was founded by Ya-Sin Shabazz and Darryl Booker, both of Bay St. Louis.

Father Kelly would like to thank everyone who so generously responded to his call for help with the grounds and lawn maintenance.

Benefit for Dot Neubig Day is Saturday, Aug. 10 at Kenny Ray Ladner's field on Lower Bay Road from 11 a.m. till.

Ice chests are badly needed. If you can lend one for the day, please be sure your name and telephone number is on the bottom so it can be returned to you. Please bring it to the Parish Hall on Friday. Anyone who can volunteer for this beautiful cause and terrific lady, donations of all kinds will be appreciated. Everyone is welcome.

Central air conditioning and heating, along with its wiring, and painting of the entire facility was completed by the Humane Society.

GE Plastics reports status of emissions

Special to the Echo
GE Plastics has reported to community leadership and to the EPA the status of chemical emissions from its Bay St. Louis plant, located in the Port Bienvenue Industrial Park.

The report was made in the month prior to the required date established by the Federal Government in the Superfund and Reorganization Act of 1986 (SARA Title III).

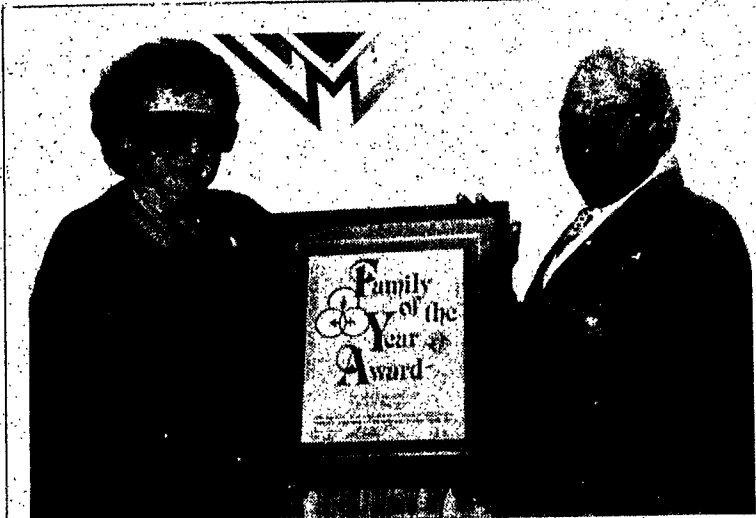

Dennie Dowell, manager, Health, Safety and Environment, explained five chemicals used in the manufacture of plastics are processed in quantities sufficient for reporting during 1990. The local plant produces SAN (Styrene/Acrylonitrile) resins used in the manufacture of ABS (Acrylonitrile-Butadiene-Styrene) engineering thermoplastics.

Reported levels of emissions at the Bay St. Louis facility have been reduced by 94 percent from the levels reported in 1987. Dowell explained all of GE Plastics is committed to cutting 1987 reportable levels 75 percent by 1992.

Dowell said the reduction in emissions is the result of improved operations and training, education of the operations/maintenance workforce, better defined test measurements and process revisions.

Dowell remarked, "We feel our operation poses no unusual risk to our employees or the communities in which we live. It is our responsibility to make sure that we operate in a safe and responsible manner."

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire-Caire

Peaches personify the scent and taste of summertime to me, and, of course, peaches have been a special sign of summer for more than 3,000 years, originating in China all those long, long years ago. This luscious fruit reached Europe by way of ancient Persia, and so was known for a long time as the "Persian Apple."

When the early settlers reached the Mississippi Valley, they are said to have found a peach tree in every Indian garden! It was the Spanish conquistadores in the late 15th century who had introduced the peach to the New World. Columbus is said to have carried peach trees and peach seeds on one or both of his second and third voyages.

The Indians were so fond of the juicy peaches that they spread seeds and trees far and wide. French colonists brought the peach to what is now Mississippi and Louisiana; and the English colonists in their turn "seeded" Jamestown, while the Pilgrims "seeded" Massachusetts. And, today, peaches are grown in all but the northernmost parts of the United States and flourish most in South Carolina, Georgia and California. Aren't you glad! You can often find me on an afternoon, laying away the time in the front porch swing, dripping peach juice as I bite into a second or even third peach.

And, you'll often find me concocting some sort of dish using those wonderful fresh peaches while they last. Next to homemade ice cream on my list of favorites is fresh peach pie—and a wedge of homemade peach pie topped with a generous scoop of fresh peach ice cream is nothing less than heavenly! I will settle for vanilla ice cream at times.

I'm also quite fond of fresh peach upside-down cake; try peaches in place of pineapple next time you make an upside-down cake, you'll like the taste of the warm glazed peaches! And it's "easier than pie." Here's:

FRESH PEACH UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 stick (4 oz.) plus 3 Tblsp. butter, softened
1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs (room temperature)
2 Tblsp. peach brandy
2/3 cup dark brown sugar (lightly packed)
6 small to medium peaches (1 1/2 lbs. peeled, quartered and pitted)

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. In small bowl, mix together the flour and baking powder. In medium bowl, beat the stick of butter creamy smooth, just a couple of minutes. Add the granulated sugar and keep beating until light and fluffy, say 3 minutes. Add the eggs one at a time, beating after adding each one, then fold the flour-baking powder mixture into the batter, taking care that no white streaks are showing. Stir in the brandy.

In a heavy oven-proof 9-inch skillet (I use my cast iron skillet) melt the remaining 3 tablespoons of butter, add the brown sugar and cook over moderate heat, stirring from time to time, until melted and bubbly, then remove from the heat.

Arrange the peach quarters in the skillet in two circles, beginning with the outer ring, and cook over moderately high heat for three minutes or so, just until the peach juices bubble. Remove from the heat, and turn over each peach quarter, with two small spoons; cook for 3 minutes longer, then remove from heat.

With a larger spoon, spread the cake batter over the peaches, smoothing it quickly. (It doesn't matter if the batter doesn't fully cover the fruit. Remember, the batter will swell as it cooks). Bake in the middle of the oven for 20 minutes, or until your cake tester or a straw comes out clean when inserted in the center. Cool for 5 minutes before turning out on a platter, and serve warm or at room temperature. Good!

Some cuttings prove ideal plant sources

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Blanche Bell's yard was a thing of beauty. My childhood neighbor's whole yard was enclosed within a rainbow border of colors.

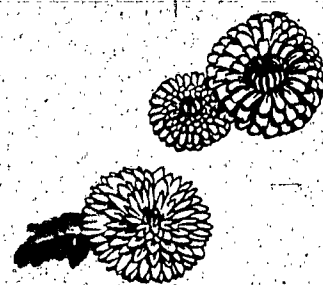

Mrs. Bell's border gardens were a mixture of blooming rose bushes and flowering perennials and annuals. She must have had one of the first Peace rose bushes, an All-America Rose Selection winner in 1946. She grew snapdragons, alyssum, delphiniums, Oriental poppies, Phlox, Salpiglossis and asters.

In the backyard a well-trimmed, boxwood hedge, separated the flowers from the blue and bentgrass lawn. A similar boxwood hedge separated the property from the sidewalk in front.

Mrs. Bell helped me start a hedge to match hers. We decided to make our adjoining gardens look like one, she showed me how to take vegetative cuttings and root them. In a few years my boxwood plants grew to the size of hers, and I'd learned another gardening lesson from that dear lady.

Propagating plants from cuttings is the way so many of our popular ornamental plants are produced today. Some plants, such as our fruit trees and roses, are propagated by grafting, but the majority of hybrid, flowering and non-flowering patented and non-patented shrubs come from cuttings. Propagating your own plants isn't the quickest way to a beautiful yard, but with some special plants it's worth the effort and time.

Success with cuttings is dependent on several factors including the time of year, condition of the cutting, moisture, temperature, light and the plant. Forsyth is a plant considered almost ridiculously easy to propagate at almost any time of year. Branches in contact with the soil frequently root with no encouragement or special care.

in Mississippi Gardens

Redbud cuttings are difficult to root, so most redbud trees are grown from seed, although grafting is used to propagate named selections. An interesting fact about redbud is that they generally cannot self-pollinate. This isn't a problem unless you are collecting seeds from a white-flowered redbud and expect the seedlings to have white flowers. In most cases the flowers will be pink.

Many ornamental shrubs can be propagated from cuttings taken in mid-summer when the new growth is no longer soft or tender. Some of these are hydrangea, holly, crape myrtle, evergreen azaleas, glossy abelia, Japanese aucuba, boxwood and camellia. While forsythia roots easily, some plants such as camellia require a great deal of patience.

The medium used for rooting cuttings should have the capacity to hold moisture but not be waterlogged. Mixtures of equal parts of peat moss and perlite or sand work well for many plants. Sand alone may be best for boxwood.

Treating the cutting's end with a rooting hormone (available at most nursery and garden supply stores) speeds the rooting process, results in more roots and more rooted cuttings. Evergreen azalea cuttings benefit from weekly drenching with benlate or captan to reduce rotting.

Cuttings, even though stuck in a moisture holding medium, dry out rapidly and die if not kept in a high humidity atmosphere. Commercial propagators use a misting system to prevent drying but gardeners should use a poly tent to maintain a high humidity atmosphere around the cuttings.

Most cuttings are only 4 to 6 inches long and one-third to one-half the length is stuck in the rooting medium. Strip the leaves from the lower portion of the cutting that will be in the moist, rooting medium. Place the clear plastic covered rooting container where it will receive light but no direct sunlight. Keep the rooting medium moist and within four to six weeks cuttings of many plants will have roots.

make the electrical outlet functional for use during the festival.

Weidman questioned the necessity for the meter to be shut-off at all.

Frilot accused Weidman of pretending ignorance saying, "Let's state the facts exactly as they are. When you were polled, you said you didn't object to the meter being turned on, as long as it was in Clarence's (Harris') name."

It was said during the course of the discussion that the city had shut off the meter at the park because of an electrical theft which occurred in the past.

Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard, who was also sitting between the mayor and Weidman called out, "This is supposed to be a meeting, not a battle."

Weidman again questioned the need for a meter that needed to be shut on and off as needed.

Harris, who had been standing in front of the board, was reclining in a chair by this time.

Following Weidman's question he answered, "I don't have a problem with that (meaning the connection of the box only as needed)."

The board voted to allow the park to be used for the annual summer fest, with free electrical hook-up for the day.

For one brief moment, the sound of cooperation broke through, following a request by John Lange to write a letter of complaint to Multi-Vision Cable Company about recent disruptions in service, and unfulfilled promises of extended service.

Frilot reminded Lange and others in the audience who were unanimous in their complaint, that the cable company gave city clients two free weeks of all pay channels as pacification for the service disruptions.

She added that the company has assured her the work being done is to adapt the system for the addition of the promised channels.

Frilot said she would write a letter to the company requesting a formal explanation.

Weidman asked the mayor to include mention of the installation materials left in the Idlewood subdivision by the cable company.

The aura of mutual purpose was quickly dispersed when discussion of charging a "nominal" fee to the St. Vincent de Paul Society for their newly occupied rooms in the City Hall Annex Building began.

Upon a recommendation by the city attorney, Frilot suggested the city lease the rooms to the Society for legal protection. By law, the city cannot give anything away without it furthering the promotion of the city.

Frilot recommended the board ask for $50 a month with a yearly lease.

Colson rejected the amount, saying he felt "One dollar a month would be nominal."

Gex was asked to comment, answering the one dollar figure to be too close to the original problem of whether the city could legally give away the space.

Frilot asked Colson if $25 a month would be acceptable.

Colson had not answered when Weidman called out, "I would like to make a motion that we charge $15 a month."

Frilot sighed, "We have a motion on the floor. Is there a second?"

There was not.

Colson stated, "How about $20 a month?"

Rappold made the motion for the $25 per month fee, which was seconded by Hubbard. It was unanimously approved.

In other business the board approved:

—a $1,000 donation to the Hancock County Human Resources Agency, Senior Citizens Center, which serves some 90 Waveland residents;

—upon verification by the city attorney to be legally permitted, a $1,500 contribution to the Desert Storm Appreciation Day celebration;

—advertisement in the Bay High School 1991 football program;

—a two week extension on a public hearing for James Neumiller concerning a property clean up;

—the appointment of Theresa Campion Jones as a deputy of registrar of voters, replacing Patricia Warman;

—authorized street superintendent Henry Villere to attend a workshop, Thursday, August 22, in Hattiesburg at a cost of the $20 fee;

—authorized the mayor to sign new contracts with the Hancock County Library System, which stipulate a change in that no set amount of money is named as obligatory;

—authorization for Colson to inspect Martin Luther King Park and report back to the board on recommendations for improvements which will address toddler needs;

—an ordinance for the implementation and maintenance of the City of Waveland addressing plan in coordination with the 911 emergency system;

—authorization for Waveland Police Department Investigator Jimmy Varnell to sign a one-year contract for a cellular phone for the police investigator's car;

—the recommendations of the planning and zoning commission; and —the city replacement of culverts purchased by George Labreche on his property near Bienville Drive and Conrad Lane.

The mayor announced the county primary elections in September will be in the Waveland Library on Coleman Avenue, since the Civic Center is under renovation.

Also mentioned was the hiring of Nancy Gallagher as the new animal shelter director.

Gex said the study was really needed by the city should it plan to sue, in which case expert testimony would be necessary.

Weidman, pursuing the necessity for the study, asked that Chimiche be contacted and instructed to submit a quote for the topographical study which would include cause, effect and suggestions for a solution.

Frilot stopped Weidman saying, "I suggest you make this in two separate motions."

Weidman's first motion to postpone accepting the present quote (which did not address drainage problems), was seconded and approved.

The second motion made by Weidman asked for "professional recommendations."

Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson, who also said he thought the study was to address the problems, seconded the motion for Chimiche to resubmit the quote.

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold objected to spending $2,500 on a study for information she said can be found in past survey reports.

Following further discussion, a vote was taken and the motion was tied.

Rappold and Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard, "No."

Colson and Weidman, "Yes."

Frilot broke the tie saying, "I vote no."

Fordice

ECONOMIC RELIEF

He said a key to solving the state's financial crunch is to bring in new industrial development and keep in the state those industries that already exist.

"I refuse to listen to raising taxes. We're taxed to death in this state; we're not undertaxed."

Two things Fordice pledged to stop in the state government is spending more money than the state takes in, and hiring more state employees than are really needed.

At the same time, he said he sees a real need to create more jobs throughout the state and to keep those industries now in Mississippi from leaving.

He mentioned the port at Gulfport as an example of industry that should be encouraged. Fordice said the port should be doing three times the business it is doing.

EDUCATION

Concerning public education, Fordice said that most of the state's politicians want simply to pump more money into the system.

"I don't think that's the correct answer, and neither do 90 percent of the people I've talked to in the state. We're already tax-poor, and the system hasn't improved."

Fordice stated that more accountability is needed in the public education system, as well as a culling out of incompetent teachers and more support of good teachers.

He said more of the money that is earmarked for education should go into the classroom, and less should go into administrators' salaries.

"There are districts in the north part of the state where the teachers are teaching from books bound together by tape, and the administrators are making $100,000 a year! Something has to be done to change that."

PUBLIC SAFETY

In speaking of crime and public safety, Fordice said the state has to stop reinforcing the image of the criminal as a victim of society. He called for stiffer sentences; mandatory jail sentences without parole for people who use weapons in the course of committing a crime; and putting prison inmates to work on state farms and other projects.

A member of the National Rifle Association, Fordice said the state should leave the law-abiding citizens who own guns alone and concentrate on the criminals.

As for putting inmates to work, he said the inmates at Parchman State Penitentiary sit in air-conditioned comfort, eat catered meals and watch television while the state cotton farm is being leased out. "I say the inmates should be working the farm."

ABORTION

Fordice has strong beliefs about abortion, now a matter of national concern.

"I feel strongly about the sanctity of life. I abhor using abortion as birth control, or to determine the sex of the child."

"However, I also recognize the need to have abortion available as an option in cases involving rape, incest or the health of the mother."

GAMBLING

His beliefs about dockside gambling are just as strong as his stand on abortion.

"I realize I may make some people mad and lose a few votes over this, but I feel about gambling the same way I feel about abortion. I don't believe gambling is morally right."

He said he realizes that the people in Hancock and other counties that have legalized gambling are desperate for economic relief, but he maintained his belief that gambling won't solve the problems.

On the other hand, he is realistic about the advent of dockside gambling.

"It's the law of Mississippi, with a local option, and since Hancock County exercised that option, gambling is the law here apparently."

"Let's not operate in a vacuum. Gambling is here, it's legal. So we need to look at other places where gambling operates, look at the problems, and try to mitigate them and safeguard against them as much as possible."

Fordice said continual screenings of gambling operators should be a priority, as well as limiting hours of operation and amounts of bets.

college. "You need a college education, today has been equated with success."

"Yet there are very successful carpenters, electricians, plumbers, who like what they do for a living."

"The Vo-Tech school of today addresses the interests of those students with the skills to be the craftsmen of tomorrow."

Bourgeois also spoke of how the Vo-Tech Center has provided a very specialized service only recently recognized within the community.

"We have many special education students," he commented. "Students who tend to show more interest when they are given a 'hands on' opportunity."

"The Vo-Tech classes are modified for the special education student through the cooperative efforts of the special education teacher and the shop teacher."

The ability of the special education student to learn is enhanced through the skill development of a Vo-Tech class, he continued.

The board was informed by Bourgeois and superintendent Terrell Randolph that the Vo-Tech Center will also be utilized by students from the Bay-Waveland School District.

The two school districts will be working together to allow the crossing over of some 100 students, so that specific classes might be made available to more.

Randolph said Vo-Tech classes, along with several academic classes, will be opened for students from either district where one class is offered and one is not.

The board was informed by assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey that the Gulfview parking lot is to be paved and completed "on or before August 19."

The lot was reported completed, other than the paving, which was delayed because of a setback with the contractor.

Place on hold was approval of the administrative salary scale and a recommended increase in adult and student meal charges.

Other business included: —approval of a partial payment of $26,730 to W.A. Warren Construction for paving at Gulfview Elementary School and Hancock High School;

—approval of a partial payment of $2,608.62 to architects Tompkins, Hasen and Fields for work on the concession stand at Hancock High School;

Echo Staff Reports

GRAND LARCENY

Investigators Matt Karl and Nathan Hoda with the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported three arrests on grand larceny charges in two unrelated incidents.

Karl said the first case involves the arrests of Lena Watson, 27, and Jerry Watson, 32, both of River Ridge, La. Both were charged with grand larceny after two Alabama women reported that luggage was missing from their pickup truck.

According to the report, Rose Mary Thomas of Gulf Shores, Ala., and Michelle Buskens of Foley, Ala., were moving from California to Alabama when their truck ran out of gas on Interstate 10 between 2 and 3 a.m. Saturday.

They pulled onto the shoulder of the interstate, on the eastbound side, and a couple stopped to offer assistance. As the two women and the couple left to go to Todd's Mini Mart for gas, another truck pulled up behind the one the women were driving.

Karl said that when the victims and the other couple returned, they discovered that luggage containing about $1,500 in clothes, jewelry and other goods was missing.

They returned to the convenience store, and the truck that had stopped behind them on the interstate was at the store. The truck left the parking lot, and shortly afterward, Auxiliary Deputy Nathan "Corky" Hoda and Deputy Alan James arrived at the store.

Karl said the stop was a routine one, and not in response to a call. After being told what happened, getting a description of the truck and finding out that the couple in the truck had said they were looking for a place to stay, Hoda and James began searching at local motels. They soon found the truck and its occupants, who Karl said had the missing luggage in their possession.

He said Mrs. Watson was released on a $5,000 bond, while her husband was being held for Missouri authorities, who want him as an escapee.

Investigator Nathan Hoda reported the arrest of Corey A. Bosarge, 19, of Melody Lane in Pearlinton on a grand larceny charge for the alleged theft of a basketball goal and volleyball net. Hoda said Bosarge was released on a $2,500 bond.

Phillips to head Coast Private Industry Council

C. Noel Phillips, president of Dolphin Press Inc. of Long Beach, was elected chairman of the Gulf Coast Private Industry Council at its July 18 meeting.

The council is responsible for implementing, overseeing and recommending programs funded under the Job Training Partnership Act of 1982.

The administrative arm of the Private Industry Council is Gulf Coast Business Services Corporation, which is the grant recipient of JTPA funds in Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, George and Stone counties.

Phillips, a 1963 graduate of Loyola University of the South, and his wife, Betsy, live in Waveland. He served as president of the St. Clare Parish School Board and Parish Council. He is a member of the Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce. Nancy Gex, owner of Hall of Frame Inc., Waveland, was chosen as vice-chairman of the council.

Larry Cosper, secretary-treasurer of COSCO Inc., Ocean Springs, and C. M. "Mickey" Davenport, manager of hourly employment and training at Ingalls Shipbuilding, were elected to the executive committee of the council.

Phillips with Robert Bass, director of tax service, Moore & Powell, CPA and Harold "Buz" Olsen, director of Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, attended the National Private Industry Council Leadership Institute, sponsored by the National Alliance of Business recently in Atlanta, Ga.

The primary objective of the

C. Noel Phillips

National Private Industry Council Leadership Institute is to provide a forum for the advancement of the technical, programmatic and policy knowledge of the men and women serving on the 633 Private Industry Councils across the nation.

The major goal of the institute is to help PICs strengthen their capacity to function more effectively by increasing their ability to develop job training policy and programs on the federal, state, and local levels.

The institute has also been designed to advance the partnership concept embodied in the Job Training Partnership Act, involving both local public and private policymakers.

Kids rodeo

Young fishermen test the waters

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club Kids Fishing Rodeo was a big success, with a record number of 373 boys and girls participating, according to Sam Perniciaro Jr., club president.

The big excitement of the rodeo was again the Crab division involving participants ages six and under. Shorty Karl, rodeo chairman said, "It is always a thrill to see the youngsters bringing in the big crabs. It is the first time many of them have ever tried crabbing."

Selected as King Fisherman was Troy Borchert and Queen Fisherette was April Lafontaine.

Largest fish of the rodeo honors went Borchert with a sand shark weighing in at 18 lbs., 7 oz.

The participants all received a free hot dog and Coke and some 160 extra prizes were drawn from the list of participants.

Many of the prizes were donated by local merchants, and others as far away as Hattiesburg.

Perniciaro expressed thanks to all who helped make the rodeo a big success.

Weighmasters were Rickey Geoffrey and Orville Farrell, club members.

Geoffrey commented, "It was great to see so many parents with their children, the rodeo turned out to be a family affair."

Results were:

Freshwater division—
Green trout, first place, T. J. Burleson, 1.28 lbs.; second, Raymond Estapa; and third, Mark Perniciaro.

Perch, first place, Raymond Estapa, 50 lbs.; second, Chris Doyl; and third, Ned Bordelon.

Saltwater division—

Speckled trout, first place, Jessica Scardino, 1.8 lbs.; second, Brad Aubert, 1.75 lbs.; third, Jessica Nugent, 1.62 lbs.

White trout, Todd Barrett, 1.1 lbs.; second, Ronnie Vanney; and third, Phillip Bell.

Croaker, first place, Joseph Scalfidi, 40 lbs.; second, Justin Ard; and third, Roger Sprouse.

Flounder, first place, Mitchel Storey, 3.25 lbs.; second, Kristie Stiefel, 2.74 lbs.; and third, Brad Aubert, 2.5 lbs.

Ground mullet, first place, Brad Griffen, 1.2 lbs.; second, Steven Duffy; and third, April Lafontaine.

Geoffrey reported there were no redfish entries.

Club members are already discussing plans for next year's rodeo.

PRC football players report today

Pearl River Community College will start a new era of Wildcat football today when 80 or more players report for fall practice.

Willie J. Coats, the Wildcats' new head football coach, says he is ready.

"I've been on board here at PRC for nearly three months and I'm excited about having players on campus to coach," he said.

Coats was named Pearl River's top Wildcat after Mike Nelson resigned back in the spring. Nelson, who led the Wildcats to an 8-2 record last year, retired because of health problems.

Nelson suffered a stroke last December, and even though he is making an excellent recovery, he decided it would be in his best interest and it would be best for the college for him to retire.

Coats, who left a head coaching job at Hattiesburg, said his players will report by noon today.

Friday's two-a-day practices are scheduled for 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Offensive lineman Shane Padgett from Oak Grove, who was scheduled to sign with Ole Miss, will join the Wildcat team instead, according to an Associated Press story Wednesday.

Padgett, 6 feet 6, 280 pounds, will report to practice today.

PRC's first game is at home, Saturday, Aug. 31, against the Northwest Rangers from Sonatobia.

Handling the day's catch

If you are a fisherman, you know the thrill of catching fish and the pleasure of eating freshly caught fish. You also know that as soon as a fish leaves the water, it begins to deteriorate.

Of all fresh foods, fish is the most susceptible to spoilage. This makes prompt treatment necessary to preserve the best qualities of fish.

Handling fresh fish

You certainly can't drag fish on a stringer behind the boat very long and expect them to live and have excellent flavor later in the day. You must take care to preserve the flavor and keep fish from spoiling.

Some fishermen are not very wise. They spend a lot of money for rods and reels but neglect the small cost of an ice chest to preserve their catches properly.

If you are one of these and cannot keep fish alive, you can help keep quality for a very limited time by wrapping fish in damp moss, ferns, wet newspaper, or burlap and keeping fish out of the sun.

To insure quality, clean and chill fish as quickly as possible after you catch them. Some fishermen fillet fish during a fishing lull or while returning to shore. They store the fillets in plastic bags.

The first requirement in filleting fish is a good, sharp filleting knife. A good knife costs about five dollars and will last a lifetime if you care for it properly. It should not be used for other purposes. To do its job, it must be kept sharp.

Electrical and mechanical knife sharpeners will quickly give your knife a good cutting edge but will rapidly wear the blade away. Although it takes more time and skill, the sharpening stone is the most effective method of sharpening. The knife will last longer if sharpened with a stone. This is especially true when sharpening is completed with a few strokes on a butcher's steel to set the blade's edge.

Use either a wet or dry stone. A wet stone is preferred. A drop of vegetable oil is an ideal wetting agent.

Filleting your fish catch

1. On a cutting board, cut entire length of belly from vent to head and remove entrails.

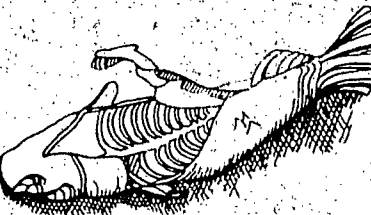

2. Cut along each side of the anal and dorsal fins for length of fish. (This step is unnecessary for small fish.)

3. Make a cut down to backbone just behind gills. Turn knife and slice straight along backbone, not quite to tail.

4. Flip fillet away from body of fish. Remove rib section by inserting blade close to tail end of rib bones and shave entire section away.

5. To remove skin, grip body of fish with one hand and lay side to be filleted on a cutting board. Insert blade between skin and meat close to tail. Draw along fish to free fillet from skin.

Repeat steps 2 through 5 to fillet other side of fish.

After filleting

After filleting, put fish in plastic bags to hold in natural flavor and juices. If ice is available, and it should be, cover bagged fish with ice.

For fish that are not filleted, fill body cavity with ice and cover fish with ice. Drain water occasionally to prevent dressed fish from becoming waterlogged.

By packing bagged fish in ice, you can maintain the quality of fillets or other cuts of fish in the refrigerator for approximately 48 hours.

If fish are to be kept longer, they should be frozen. Before freezing or cooking, clean, wash, drain, and pat fish dry with paper towels.

Types of spoilage

There are three major types of spoilage of fish. They are rancidity, protein degradation, and brown discoloration. When air comes in contact with fish, the fish absorbs oxygen, dehydration begins, and the fish becomes rancid.

Rancidity is a major cause of spoilage in fish.

The second cause of spoilage is protein degradation. The action of enzymes causes this spoilage. These enzymes are quite active at temperatures above 40 degrees. Their activity is greatly reduced, however, as temperatures decrease.

Most enzymatic activity is eliminated at 0 degree F. or colder. You can detect this spoilage by its ammonia-like odor.

Browning reaction is the third type of spoilage. This is a non enzymatic reaction caused by a combining of certain amino acids with reduced sugars. The reaction is characterized by a brown "paper bag" color.

Freezing

Freezing alone will not prevent fish from spoiling. Spoilage can be prevented or greatly delayed by treating the fish with an antioxidant, freezing, glazing, packaging in air tight containers, and storing at 0 degree F. You can expect maximum freezer life if you follow these steps.

Antioxidants

Treating fish before freezing with a chemical to prevent oxidation (antioxidant) helps prevent rancidity and browning reaction types of spoilage.

Ascorbic acid is a good antioxidant. You can buy ascorbic acid at grocery or drug stores under the trade name "Fruit Fresh." Soak fish in a .5 percent solution of ascorbic acid for 1 to 2 minutes (4 teaspoons per gallon of water is a .5 percent solution).

Another excellent barrier is to glaze fish with a pre-cooked and cooled solution of corn starch mixed in water. Use 6 tablespoons of starch to each gallon of water.

Glazing

To glaze, dip fish in an ascorbic or starch solution, place on a tray, and freeze immediately. Place fish on the tray so they do not touch, to prevent sticking together.

The solution will freeze on the fish, forming a glaze of ice that helps seal fish away from air. Repeat dipping and glazing for better protection and longer life.

Wrapping

To increase the freezer life of fish, wrap individually glazed fish tightly with plastic wrap. Pack each wrapped piece in a freezer bag, eliminate as much air as possible, seal securely and label.

By packing individually wrapped pieces, you can remove the exact amount needed without harming the remaining pieces in the bag.

Another acceptable method is to freeze fish in a carton. The quality of frozen fish will be improved by placing desired quantity of fish in carton and freezing. After fish is frozen, cover with cold water. Be sure no fish is exposed above ice.

The disadvantage of this method is the carton is slow to thaw and the entire content must be used at one time.

Labeling

You can also help prevent waste and spoilage by labeling each package with the date, amount, kind, and type of seafood. Dating each package helps you avoid leaving packages in the freezer too long and spoiling. An inventory record attached near the freezer helps eliminate this problem. A crayon or grease pencil is ideal for marking.

Take care to preserve the quality of the fish you catch. It's a good policy in freezing to keep the fish clean, keep it cold, use an antioxidant, glaze twice, wrap to shut out air, label, freeze quickly, keep an inventory record and use within six months.

Home remedies take sting out of 'eeeyoow' fish bites

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Last week I warned the well-dressed surf fisherman that he should wear long pants, shoes and socks, or practice saying 'eeeyoow'. It seems that a few folks got some good practice in how to say 'eeeyoow'.

I got several calls from people asking, "How do you ease the pain?" To answer this question I saddled up a turtle and went to the far end of the Earth (New Orleans) and asked a few people what they recommend for the sting of 'eeeyoow' fish. Then, since people in foreign countries sometimes don't know local conditions, I talked to some local pharmacists.

Still not completely, completely satisfied, I sought the services of the local witch doctor. Everyone made a point to tell me to make sure and say that if swelling, dizziness, or shortness of breath occurs, it is best to see your doctor quick-like as soon as possible. To stop the stinging caused by 'eeeyoow' fish, it seems as though everybody has a home first-aid remedy. Items mentioned include meat tenderizer, baking soda, lemon juice, vinegar, the cyc of a knot and ground lizard tails. Your best source of advice on the treatment of 'eeeyoow' stings is still your doctor.

The ever-increasing number of families with children, fishing and enjoying the seawall, is a source of pride for our community. I talked to quite a few of these families in the past few weeks about the "special skills" that are required for young people to catch their first fish.

It seems that there is no special skill required. You only need a pole, hook, line, sinker, and, most importantly, some dead shrimp.

Two young fishermen, Scottie, 10, and Michael, 12, Santalla told me they were wearing out hooks on specks and reds on the seawall around Sand Bayou.

Flatfish-stabbing people are averaging 6 to 8 flatfish per night in the area around Jackson Ridge Bayou. For those who don't know, this bayou is the largest one that goes under the road in front of Buccaneer Park. Be careful, as I understand that the stingrays are holding a convention in this area.

The Ladner Pier is producing big catches of specks almost every night. You can have a lot of fun fishing for these small specks, but keeper size (14 inches) fish are almost nonexistent.

I promised to tell the results of the BMR hearing on the petition to keep our five undersize specks. The hearing was held in Jackson last week. BMR had no legal choice but to grant a rehearing. They have granted the rehearing, but have not set a date for it.

BMR has refused to stop enforcement of the new law, which means you cannot keep any specks under 14 inches. Many people feel that BMR had no legal choice but to delay the enforcement of the new ordinance on specks until the rehearing. BMR has chosen not to delay but to enforce the ordinance anyway.

No word yet from the governor on this issue, but our local legislators say they are "upset" with BMR.

"So that everyone is real clear," you can only keep specks that are longer than 14 inches. The limit is 25.

This week's wonderful words: 'eeeyoow' fish are very hard to file. But there is no size limit on them... yet.

Enough, turtle, enough.

Keesler Little League wins championship

Keesler's Little League Pitching Machine All-Stars are the state champions.

The team, made up of the best 14 players from the six teams on base, competed in an invitational tournament July 8-13 in Ocean Springs.

"The tournament was for 9- and 10-year-olds," said Buddy Berling, a team coach, "but our team is comprised of 8-, 8- and 9-year-olds."

The Keesler All-Stars swept four games to win the double-elimination tournament.

In the first game, Keesler beat d'Iberville 8-7.

Keesler then beat Bay St.

Louis, 14-10, and for the second time in the tournament and the title, d'Iberville, 18-10.

"The team played great," Berling said. "It was like they played together all season. We practiced about two hours a day for a week to prepare for the tournament, and the players went out and did what had to be done."

In the pitching machine league, the umpire feeds balls into a pitching machine and makes the calls from the machine. There are no walks allowed, but players can strike out. All other Little League rules apply.

Three-on-Three Basketball Classic slated by Optimists

The Gulfport-Long Beach Optimist Club will sponsor its first annual Mississippi Gulf Coast Three-On-Three Classic Basketball Tournament on Aug. 24 and 25.

The tournament will be held just north of the Rice Pavilion on Hwy. 90 in Gulfport, and will run from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday and 1-6 p.m. on Sunday.

The tournament is open to everyone, but limited to the first 128 teams to preregister and pay the $50 entrance fee.

Each team will be guaranteed at least two games, and each game will last for 30 minutes.

For more information regarding registration, contact Don Davenport at 868-4316.

Shot size regulation repealed

A regulation that restricts the size of ammunition used during daylight hours was repealed by the Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks. The regulation was presented to the commission for final adoption at its meeting last month, but action was postponed pending additional input from concerned sportsmen.

Greg Waggoner, training coordinator with the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, said the regulation went into effect July 1, but is not being enforced. He said the decision to ask the commission to repeal the regulation was the direct result of a workshop sponsored by the department and attended by representatives of several Mississippi hunting, firearm and other sportsmen organizations. Among other concerns, participants in the workshop thought the regulation prevented muzzleloaders from hunting small game and restricted a person's ability to control varmints. Waggoner said the intent of the regulation was to protect big game during closed seasons and to help clarify existing laws concerning the use of firearms and ammunition during the different hunting seasons.

"Public involvement is not only welcomed by the department, but sought and appreciated," Waggoner said.

"Following the workshop, we now feel we have a solid core group of sportsmen willing to work with the department to enhance Mississippi's wildlife resources and work together to resolve this and other problems."

Hunter education courses offered

Hunter education classes will be offered for Hancock County residents through October. The schedule for classes at the Mississippi Power Co. building, Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis, is: August 5, 6, 10, 12; September 9, 11, 13, 14; and October 3, 7, 8, 12. Each class starts at 6 p.m.

Hunter education classes will also be conducted by Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks Officer Andrew Elchos at 6 p.m. each day on the following dates: August 20, 21, 22, 24 at the Pearlington Community Center; September 24, 25, 26, 28 at the Necaise Crossing Community Center. Anyone born after January 1, 1972 is required by law to complete a hunter education course before obtaining a hunting license. For more information, call Antoine Boyd at 467-6838, or Tom Williams at 467-3266.

No change in dove hunting hours; seasons set

There will be no change in dove hunting hours for Mississippi hunters this year, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks. Shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise until sunset. At the meeting of the agency's five-member commission Thursday in Jackson, the following dove hunting seasons were set: Sept. 7-20; Oct. 12-Nov. 6; and Dec. 21-31. The bag limit will be 15 and the possession limit will be 30.

A possession limit is not permitted on the opening day of any season. Hunters will have 60 days of dove hunting statewide. State wildlife department figures indicate that hunters harvest between 2 and 3 million doves annually. Other migratory bird seasons set Thursday include woodcock, which opens Nov. 28 and closes Jan. 31, 1992. The daily limit is 5 and the possession limit is 10. Common snipe hunting opens Nov. 14 and extends through Feb. 28, 1992. The daily limit is 8 and the possession limit is 16. The season on gallinules and king, clapper, sora and Virginia rails opens Oct. 12 and closes

Dec. 20. The daily limit on gallinules is 15 and the possession limit is 30. For king and clapper rails, the daily limit is 15 of either species or in any combination, and the possession limit is 30. For sora and Virginia rails, the daily limit and possession limit is 25 of either species or in any combination. Conservation offices remind hunters that migratory birds are protected by state and federal laws. Hunters must have their shotguns plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells. Of course, hunters must have a valid hunting license signed and on their person before going afield.

Hello again

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

I'm back! 'Dya miss me? I just had to resurrect my column; I was having KT (Killing Time) withdrawals.

Can you imagine a columnist going through withdrawal? It's not a pretty sight, believe me.

You go around for the first couple of days acting as though you've lost a child and are trying to be brave about it. People say things like, "It's too bad you aren't writing your column anymore. I really enjoyed it."

You thank them for their support, and encourage them to write a note to the editor so she will know people actually read the column. Meanwhile, you feel a pang or two inside.

After the initial shock wears off, you think you're back to normal. Wrong.

You start hearing things — ideas that are just begging to be expressed. But you have to ignore those ideas; after all, you're not writing your column any more.

Little by little, the things you would have put into your column start seeping into your regular news writing. Take, for instance, the article I wrote for Sunday's paper about the gambling study workshop.

Here's a bit of the version that ran:

BY TRACI BONNEY

Two presentations, 10 questions and three hours after it started, a gambling study workshop Thursday showed one thing:

Many people in Bay St. Louis, no matter what their personal convictions are about dockside gambling, share the same concerns about community preservation and protection.

Now, that sounds fairly reasonable and logical, doesn't it? But if I had succumbed to the KT withdrawal pains, it might have come out something like:

BY TRACI BONNEY

After a gambling study workshop that included two slightly interesting presentations and 10 possibly meaningful questions, and lasted three long hours Thursday night, one thing was obvious:

Many people in Bay St. Louis are very concerned about finding parking spaces in the Main Street/Beach Blvd. area, and about how few of those parking spaces will still exist if dockside gambling comes to the city.

See what I mean?

In its worst stages, the withdrawal deeply affects the columnist. She becomes too efficient with her regular work, writing it very quickly so she'll have more time to spend on her column.

Then, when she puts fingers to keyboard, she remembers SHE ISN'T WRITING HER COLUMN ANY MORE! On the agony of it! To have what she most desires within her grasp, and NOT BE ABLE TO TAKE HOLD OF IT!

Fortunately, I didn't reach that stage before Janet said, "Just start writing the column again."

I almost got that far, though I actually wrote a letter to the editor for another newspaper.

I know, I'm not proud of that, but at least I didn't quit.

Actually, column writing is a fairly harmless addiction. At least I'm not writing editorials. I can't imagine trying to draw from that.

Host families for exchange students sought

High school students from 21 countries will be arriving in the area August. Each one is looking forward to living with an American family for a high school year.

Sharing family life with an EF Foundation exchange student is a wonderful way to bring an international perspective to your family.

Local EF international exchange coordinators, Pat and Danny Callahan, are currently looking for families who wish to host.

Call Pat and Danny at 452-5444 or Melanie Cialocki, regional manager, toll-free at 1-800-44-SHARE for more information on hosting an EF student.

Meology drug prevention offers training to teachers

A three-day intensive training program for volunteer teachers of the "Meology" drug prevention program is scheduled for Aug. 6, 7 and 8, according to Alicia Ellis, president of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission and administrator of the Meology program.

The training will be conducted by Joanne Kinney of Pass Christian at the Garden Park Hospital training room in Gulfport.

"Up to 25 teachers, including some law enforcement officers, are expected for the 9 to 5 sessions. Garden Park Hospital has made their facility available for training Meology teachers each year for the past five years," Ellis stated.

The Meology drug education program emphasizes to primary school pupils that they will be making decisions that affect their future and teaches the identify and nature of different types of illicit drugs.

It also teaches specifics of the effects of the use of alcohol and tobacco, emphasizing the responsibility of the individual for making his own choice in deciding to use these as well.

Additional information on the program can be secured from the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission in Gulfport, 864-9885.

Library to close for inventory

All three branches of the Hancock County Library System will close Monday through Thursday, Aug. 12-15, for inventory.

Patrons returning books should use the book drop behind the City-County Public Library on Ulman Avenue, or the Waveland Library outside book return on Coleman Avenue.

The City-County Library will reopen on Friday, Aug. 16 at 9:30 a.m., and the Waveland and Kiln branches will reopen at 10 a.m.

Johnson joins library staff

Max Johnson has been named assistant director of the Hancock County Library System, according to system director Prima Wusnack.

Johnson, a native of Vicksburg, holds a bachelor of science degree and master of library science degree, accredited from the American Library Association from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Previously employed by the Mississippi Employment Security Commission and Jackson Metropolitan Library System, Johnson was most recently head of technical services for the Central Mississippi Regional Library System. There he developed and organized the technical services department for the 20 branches of the four-county library system.

According to Wusnack, Johnson brings with him extensive knowledge and experience in automated cataloging; BIBLIOFILE utilities and database management combined with a sound philosophy of public

Co-op education

Bolian is Bay Tech employee, MSU student

Albert Bolian of Bay St. Louis is one of more than 760 students participating in the Cooperative Education Program at Mississippi State University while working on his baccalaureate degree in electrical engineering.

Under this program he is receiving not only his regular education, but also practical work experience in his chosen field. In addition to this experience he receives a salary.

Bolian is completing his third work semester with Bay Technical Associates in Bay St. Louis and will be returning to the Mississippi State campus to complete this studies.

During this work semester, Bolian's duties have included writing software to test Bay Tech products at various stages of production.

Testing new components appropriated by Bay Tech; researching new components to be appropriated by Bay Tech; Testing prototype units being developed by Bay Tech; and minor hardware redesign for some Bay Tech products.

Bolian says of this work semester, "The most beneficial aspect of the training I received this semester has been the knowledge I have gained by working with the design engineers at Bay Tech."

"I have assisted them on various parts of the design process. I have even been allowed to redesign an existing Bay Tech PC Board to make it slightly more functional."

"Co-oping is giving me an excellent insight to what an electrical engineer really does. Someone who is not co-oping really has no idea as to what he or she is getting into."

"I am extremely confident that upon graduation, I will be able to be productive immediately in the work place. Co-oping is also great on the pocketbook."

The Cooperative Education

Program is available to students in accountancy, agriculture and home economics, architecture, arts and sciences, business and industry, education, engineering and forest resources.

Frommeyer is dean's scholar

University of South Alabama president, Dr. Frederick P. Whiddon, announced Waveland student Jan Marie Frommeyer received Dean's List honors during the 1991 spring quarter.

Nineteen attend cheerleader clinic

The varsity cheerleaders of Hancock High School hosted a summer cheerleading clinic for youths July 24-26. The three-day program included instruction in cheers, chants, dance, pyramid and partner stunts, tumbling and leadership classes.

Daily award ribbons and spirit awards were received by 19 youths from the Hancock County area who attended.

Those who attended the clinic include Amanda Lovelace, Laci Havard, Jennifer Ladner, Tabatha Nacaise, Angel Freed, Jensa Ard, Kristin Bates, Ashley Blappert, Stacy Kihnenman, Akai Lightell, Stephanie Mauf-ray, Michelle Mitchell, Danielle Peri, Jessica Schwartz, Robin Sierra, Joleen Ladner, Daleary Cuevas, Mary Ann Garriga and Michele Carbon.

Instructors were Robin Skipper, Lisa Moran, Miku Cranmer, Jennifer Richard, Renee Caston, Lisa Bell and Shenea Ladner. Sponsor was Kay Lovelace.

The HHS cheerleaders will be sponsoring a year-round bimonthly clinic for youth beginning in September. Those interested should contact Kay Lovelace at Hancock High School for more information.

Lawmen sponsor finger printing

The Hancock County Lawmen's Association will sponsor a finger printing for area children Saturday and Sunday, August 10-11 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Wal-Mart on Highway 90 in Waveland.

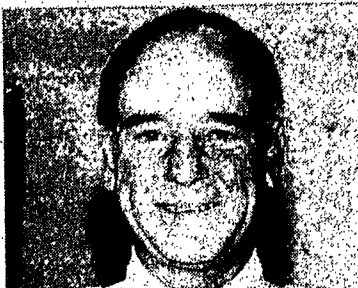

Proceeds from the event will benefit Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Randolph scholarship recipients

The 1991 Terrell Randolph Scholarships were awarded to graduating seniors Leo Acker and Shelly Lee. The $500 scholarships are awarded on scholastic achievement and economic need. Randolph, superintendent of the Hancock County School District, has funded the scholarship award for six years. From left Acker, Randolph and Lee. (Photo by Hancock County School District)

- Four more years without proper drainage? We demand proper drainage NOW!
- Four more years patching gravel streets? We demand raised up black topped streets NOW!
- Four more years of garbage disposal at $452,000 per year and still no garbage pick up?
- We tax payers cannot afford this. We demand that this cost be and must be drastically reduced. NOW!
- Four more years of do nothing? The choice is yours...I will work for you!

American Cancer Society

Assistance to victims of cancer is available through Hancock and Harrison county chapters of the American Cancer Society.

Necessary items for patients, such as dressings, ostomy and sickroom supplies are available to those in need. Equipment which may be loaned to patients includes wheelchairs and hospital beds.

Assistance is available for transportation to qualifying hospitals.

Several rehabilitation programs are offered, including "Reach To Recovery", in which volunteers who have had mastectomies visit new breast cancer patients (with approval of physician) to assist in emotional, physical and psychological rehabilitation.

Support programs are also available to ostomy and laryngectomy patients.

American Cancer Society service request forms are available by contacting the Gulfport office at 896-7024.

Senior Citizens Center

Located in the Valena C. Jones Bldg. at 301 Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, the center serves Hancock County citizens 60 plus years of age.

Under the Hancock County Human Resource Agency, the center provides classes in ceramics, macrame, art, counted cross stitch, silk flowers, ornaments, framing and various other crafts. Other programs include "Reminiscence" and "For Men Only." A morning snack is provided with donations from various clubs and businesses.

The center has a contract to provide 35 home delivered meals a day to those seniors who cannot provide for themselves, and 25 meals for those who have a need for a hot well-balanced meal daily in the cafeteria at the center.

Transportation is provided through a contract with Coast Area Transportation for most seniors in the county to bring them into the center, or to take them to the grocery, doctor, etc.

The contract with Methodist Senior Services provides two homemakers for about two hours a week to homebound, needy seniors to do light house-keeping or errands for them.

For more information, call the center at 467-9292 from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

St. Vincent Thrift Store

Waveland Conference, St. Vincent de Paul Society operates a thrift store, Waveland

Civic Center, Coleman Avenue. An information and referral service is available from 1:30 until 3:30 p.m. Proceeds benefit needy regardless of race or religion. 467-0703.

Bay-Waveland Crisis Pregnancy Center

The Bay-Waveland Crisis Pregnancy Center offers free counseling, pregnancy tests, maternity and baby clothes. Located on Highway 90, next to the Unique Shoppe in Waveland, the center offers a 24-hour hotline, 467-3444.

Jobs for Mississippi Graduates

Seniors at Hancock High School who plan to go directly to work after graduation may enroll in the Jobs for Mississippi Graduates Program (JMG), for assistance in locating quality jobs after graduation.

The program, which is one of six in the state, seeks to enhance employability skills.

For additional information, contact Mark France at Hancock High School at 467-2251.

Incest Survivors Anonymous

Incest Survivors Anonymous, a support group for survivors of childhood sexual abuse by a family member or other authority figure, meets weekly. For more information about dates, times and locations, call Susan at 466-3459 or Barbara at 255-1092.

S. Mississippi AIDS Task Force

The Western Division of the South Mississippi AIDS Task Force sponsors a support group for persons with AIDS and another for their loved ones and caretakers from Hancock County and west Harrison County.

For details, call Edith Back at 467-2445 or Betty Brunner at 467-5589.

Money Management

The Consumer Money Management Center serves the public by providing free financial consultations as well as informational literature and seminars for employers, educational institutions and civic and professional groups.

The service is sponsored by Mississippi State University and Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. To set up an appointment call Hancock County Extension Office, 467-5456.

Benefit concert

"Save the Earth," a benefit concert for 25-year-old lung transplant patient Monica Goretzki, will feature The Mississippi Mammas and folksinger Jo Be'Re Friday, August 9 at 8 p.m. at the Biloxi Saenger. Suggested donation is $10. All branches of The Peoples Bank accept donations toward the $150,000 needed for the USM graduate's operation.

Adult Literacy Education

Tutoring sessions for adults who want to learn to read and write are available through the Hancock County Library System. The program is open free of charge to any adult aged 16 and above who wants to improve reading skills to a grade five level.

Each student meets one-on-one with a certified tutor trained in the use of the Laubach Adult Literacy method. Student/tutor units meet at a time and learning center convenient to both. Learning centers for literacy are currently located in Bay St. Louis, Kiln, Waveland, Diamondhead and Pearlinton.

Call Ruth Krebs, Hancock County literacy coordinator, at the Bay St. Louis Library, 467-5282, for information. Persons who wish to teach adults to read as volunteer literacy tutors are also encouraged to call.

UNKNOWN HEIRS AT LAW OF VIOLA M. CUNNINGHAM
SUMMONS
NO. 22,307

THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI
TO: UNKNOWN HEIRS AT LAW OF VIOLA M. CUNNINGHAM, DECEASED
You have been made a Defendant in the Petition to this Court by Barbara Cunningham Ellis and Kenneth Cunningham, initiating a civil action alleging that Barbara Cunningham Ellis and Kenneth Cunningham are the sole and only heirs at law of VIOLA M. CUNNINGHAM, deceased, and seeking an adjudication of such heirship.

You are required to mail or hand deliver a written response to the Complaint filed against you in this action to Joseph W. Cox, Attorney for the plaintiffs, whose address is Post Office Box 128, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

YOUR RESPONSE MUST BE MAILED NOT LATER THAN THIRTY DAYS AFTER THE 25th DAY OF JULY, 1991, WHICH IS THE DATE OF THE FIRST PUBLICATION OF THIS SUMMONS. IF YOUR RESPONSE IS NOT SO MAILED OR DELIVERED, A JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT WILL BE ENTERED AGAINST YOU FOR THE RELIEF SOUGHT IN THE PETITION.

You must also file the original of your Response with the Clerk of this Court within a reasonable time thereafter.

I, Clerk of this Court, have caused this notice to be published in the Sea Coast Echo, this 2nd day of July, 1991.
